IPA: (India Pale Ale) Traditionally brewed in England for shipment to the English Colonies in India, IPA's have an elevated ABV and hop character that allowed them to sustain the long voyage to India. IPA's range from pale golden to deep ruby in color. The aroma is moderate to very strong. IBU - International Bittering Units. This is a measure of the actual bitterness of a beer as contributed by the alpha acid from hops

Porters: Porter is a dark-colored style of Beer. The history and development of stout and porter are intertwined. The name was first used in the 18th century from its popularity with the street and river porters of London. It is generally brewed with dark malts. The name "stout" for a dark beer is believed to have come about because a strong porter may be called "Extra Porter" or "Double Porter" or "Stout Porter". The term "Stout Porter" would later be shortened to just "stout". For example, Guinness Extra Stout was originally called "Extra Superior Porter" and was only given the name Extra Stout in 1840.
